

Greetings!

Thank you so much for taking a moment to visit and learn more about FUSE. We have been blown away by how God has continued to move within our ministry here in Greenville, NC. As a college ministry on the campuses of East Carolina University and Pitt Community College, we have seen hundreds of lives impacted with the Gospel in just a few short years.

If you are a student (or "student aged"), my ultimate desire is that you would connect with a community of believers. People who challenge you to grow not only into a better person, but into someone who is fully devoted to Jesus.

It is one of the great joys of my life to have the opportunity to lead this ministry. As a graduate of East Carolina University in 2007 (stop doing the math...I know I'm old), I learned firsthand the importance of connecting to a community of believers. I can reflect back to my time at ECU and know that God used those years for more than getting a diploma. It was at ECU that I learned what it meant to truly follow Jesus. Where I learned that there were people that experienced the same struggles, stress, and heartache I experienced. Where I learned that Christianity was less about what can God do for me, and more about what can God do through me.

I want to invite you to join us as we journey towards growing closer to finding our ultimate purpose, and as we work to help others find that purpose as well.

To get connected or if you have any specific questions, be sure to fill out the contact form.

There is a family waiting for you,
